“ I offer my deepest sympathy to Steve’s family for their loss of their father and husband. I met Stevie when he came to work for Robert Eaton as a young carpenter and we worked together for several years. He was a very serious young carpenter and very eager to learn. He was cut from a different cloth than a lot of construction people. I respected Steve a lot even though he was as much younger than me. I was happy to hear that he had started his own company and not surprised to see that he made it successful. Again, My deepest condolences to his family. Mike Myhan
