Grandma.... I miss you and love you more than what anyone thinks I do.. I know you wanted me to carry out your last testimony but I couldn't, it kills me to see how bad things have been torn between sides when it should be thick but it seems like everyone has filtered it into water. What happened to the big loving family that I grew up with... is it my fault that everyone has fallen apart and at each others throats?? I just hope that the last things you wanted to be completed and made sure to happen before you left... they have enough of LOVE and respect for you not to go against your wishes and not to hurt the one's you love by doing so... I wish I could just talk to you, just to know and try to understand how everybody turned against one another, I feel like I'm LOST in the middle of both sides of my family.. not being wanted or worried about.. they never talk to me or act like a family and I feel the same way with this side that I have always known to be more caring and loving towards family and always having each others back... but it's all very very distant and dark and painful to bare to see everyone like that. I feel like I'm hated and honestly scared to even try and attempt to make a call and talk in fear of a awful rejection from what is supposed to be family (blood thicker than water) and everyone has allowed themselves to bleed out the love that we should always maintain for each other.. I don't know what to do anymore, I'm hurt and confused by it all. Anyways I just want you to know that I LOVE YOU and MISS YOU VERY MUCH ???

*Love always your only
